PLAN STORAGE AND CREAMERY

FARMERS' ASSOCIATION CONSIDERS MARYVILLE LOGICAL SPOT

FARMERS PLAN DRIVE

Speakers at Meeting Today Tell of Advantages of Co-operative Marketing.

"The Missouri Farmers' Association is establishing cold storage and co-operative creamery stations through the state at localities that justify such expenditure," said T. H. DeWitt of Green City, Mo., field man of the Missouri Farmers' Association, "and Maryville is a logical location for such a plant," he concluded.

The fact as to whether such a plant would be established in Maryville, according to Mr. DeWitt, who was addressing a meeting of the combined farmers' organizations of the county, lies in the possibility of creating co-operation among the various units in this county and in the interest shown by the farmers in the organizations.

In Trenton, according to Mr. DeWitt, when the merchants of the town heard that a co-operative cold storage plant and creamery might be erected in that city, they pledged themselves to go out among the farmers and put the thing over. The same thing can be done in Maryville if the proper co-operation is created among the farmers.

A membership drive and a "sign-the-contract" drive is the first step in the direction of securing the co-operative plant, Mr. DeWitt said. A house-to-house campaign in this county is being planned by the county committee.

There are at the present time three county farm organizations, the Farmers Union, the Farmers' Association and the Farm Bureau. It is urged that all three co-operate under the guidance of the American Council of Agriculture, a national organization of farm unions.

John G. Brown of Monon, Ind., representative of the American Council of Agriculture, stressed the importance of farmer organizations at the present time. The farmers not only need to organize now, in order to benefit themselves economically, but they also need the social unity which can be derived from such organizations. It is toward this purpose that the American Council is attempting to bring together all of the various organizations throughout the country.

Henry Kiel, fieldman of the Farmers Union Live Stock Commission of St. Joseph, was the first speaker at the meeting.

Mr. Kiel said, "Fifty-seven per cent of the commission, that was charged for the handling of livestock produced by members of Missouri farmers' organizations, was returned to farmers of the district. Only that portion that is needed for expenses is kept. "In order that you may understand just what this means to the average farmer producer I may say that $1,736.67 was returned to the Maryville Shipping Association in the first six months of this year. This does not include all of the other money which was returned to Maryville shippers who did not ship through the local organization, but who were paid up members of some farmer organization in Missouri."

Mr. Kiel also told of the history of the shipping union and of handling of the cattle at the shipping point and also at the terminal. He stated that the shipping union used better methods at the terminal than the independent producers have ever attempted. Thus the farmer not only saves money by shipping through the co-operative marketing plan but he is also insured of better care to his stock.

The meeting of all of the farmer organizations of the county was held at the court house this afternoon. William Solter of La Grange, Mo., field manager of the Missouri Farmers' Association, was in charge of the meeting. The meeting was held for the purpose of creating better co-operation among the various organizations in the county and for completing plans for a membership drive in the county. As a future project it was brought out that there is a great possibility of Maryville securing a co-operative storage plant and creamery, providing sufficient interest can be created among the local farmers in the contract plan.

An executive meeting of the Missouri Farmers' Association will be held at the Court House following the open meeting of all farmer organiza-

Atchison, Kan. Man Held on Liquor Charge

"Posey" Leopold of Atchison, Kan., is being held here by county authorities on a liquor charge. As yet no information has been filed against him. He was arrested by Night Policemen John Hayes and Leo Atherton back of the Ray store, near Market street, late Saturday night, the officers suspicioning him of possessing intoxicating liquor.

In company with Leopold were Bert Clouser and Paul Taylor, who were arrested by Night officers Leo Atherton and Hayes but later released by the prosecuting attorney. The officers saw Leopold put a pint of supposed to be whiskey in an automobile nearby.

On the basis of the above editorial Mrs. Mary Parcher, living in the south west part of Maryville furnishes an unusual piece of news. Partly because she will be 80 years old tomorrow—but there are many who are 80 years old.

Her chief claim to furnishing unusual news lies in the fact that, although living in the corporate limits of Maryville all the time and not being an invalid but enjoying fair health, she has not been downtown in the business district of Maryville for nineteen years.

The last time Mrs. Parcher was in the business district was in October, 1906, when she attended the funeral of Capt. E. E. Townsend. While downtown then she made some purchases at the hardware store located on the west side of the square.

Mrs. Parcher has lived at her present home, 936 South Walnut, since 1872—fifty-three years last April. She is one of the very few residents of Maryville who has lived in one place more than a half century. Despite her apparent isolation she has kept herself well informed on current affairs through newspapers and magazines.

Truly it is the unusual that makes news.

31ST BARNARD PICNIC CLOSES

ANNUAL GATHERING BRINGS IMMENSE THRONGS.

CONCESSIONS CLOSED

Prosecuting Attorney Makes Statement Concerning Stopping of Concessions on Sunday.

The thirty-first Barnard picnic has passed into history.

The event which is long looked forward to by thousands in the county and many in far distant states as a time of "an annual reunion" when friendships can again be renewed, proved to be one of the biggest in the history of Barnard picnics. The crowds that gathered Friday and Saturday were immense.

The rain of Thursday did not dampen the enthusiasm or lessen the crowds for the remaining three days and the picnic was continued over Sunday so that the full three days might be enjoyed. On account of the fact that the picnic was run over the Sabbath many of the concessions were closed by county officers. It was not in a sense of trying to stop the picnic, that these places were closed, but rather in compliance with the law and the feeling among those residing at Barnard. George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, in giving a statement today has the following to say:

"Because of the rain Thursday the Barnard picnic was run over Sunday. Although no formal complaints were made to me, there were rumors of objection to the running and operation of a wide-open picnic on the Sabbath day. The sheriff and I considered the matter, and after debating it for a while decided that while we didn't want to interfere with the picnic, it was wrong to permit the operation of a wide-open picnic with all the concessions and money making devises to operate on Sunday.

"With this idea in view I went there at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and had a conference with the manager, and it being agreeable to him, I made a talk to the public. I told them that the Barnard picnic had long ago passed the stage of ordinary picnic gatherings and had become a great institution, looked forward to with pleasure, in which the best people of the community and the country about had a deep interest.

"Because of the fact that the open operation of many concession rights were resented by many, and inasmuch as it was satisfactory to the committee in charge, I and the sheriff took it upon ourselves and resumed the full responsibility of stopping a great many of the concessions. Everything except those furnishing eatables and drinks were closed.

"The ferris wheel and merry-go-round were permitted to operate.

"I didn't seek to interfere with the picnic insofar as it meant the gathering of people or of speaking and music. About twenty-five concessions of the variety of merchandise stands, racks, games and novelty concessions were closed."

Mr. Wright said that many of those holding the concessions readily acquiesced to the closing of their places and that he was told by several they were glad to abide by the decision.

It was apparent Saturday evening when the announcement was made that the picnic would run over Sunday that a feeling arose among many contrary to the continuing of the affair over Sunday. Mr. Wright felt of the opinion that the operation of these stands at the picnic might be the entering of factioning differences which might result in the abandonment of the Barnard picnic in future years.

CITY TO BUY KUSTER LAND

TO BE APPROPRIATED FOR ENLARGEMENT OF OAW HILL.

PURCHASE PRICE $5,625

Preliminary Steps Will Be Taken By City Council This Afternoon When Ordinance Will Be Passed.

Preliminary steps will be taken at 4 o'clock this afternoon by the city council toward the purchase of additional property for the enlargement of Oak Hill cemetery. An ordinance will be passed by the city commissioners at this time authorizing the purchase of seven and a half acres of the estate of the late Edmund Kuster, adjoining the Oak Hill Cemetery on the west.

The ordinance will specify the purchasing price of $750 an acre or a total of $5,625, to be paid out of the funds available at the time of the transfer of the property, which will be in ten days, when the ordinance will go into effect.

On July 18, a committee composed of Joseph Jackson, Fred Kurtz, Howard Strong, E. C. Curfman and L. E. Forsyth, recommended the the buying of property belonging to Edmund Kuster estate, held at $750 an acre. Four acres lies on south side of present road leading from the state highway into the cemetery and three and a half are on north side of road. It lies between the west boundary of Oak Hill Cemetery and state highway No. 18 on the west. The south bundary is co-extensive with the south line of the cemetery.

The purchase price includes the entire seven and a half acres with all the improvements thereon except a building used and occupied as a greenhouse, which will be vacated by the Kuster estate.

It is the intention of the council to have four acres immediately adjoining the cemetery on the west to be platted off and divided into lots to be placed on sale for burial purposes and the remaining three and a half acres, next to the state highway, will be left to be beautified as seen fit by the council. The first move will be to grade the road leading from the state highway through this seven and a half acres to the present site of the Oak Hill Cemetery, so that it may be graveled in conjunction with the improvement of the highways leading to the four Maryville cemeteries by the Maryville Cemetery Road Improvement Association.

The city council met in special session and passed motions for the final adoption of two paving resolutions for paving on Walnut street from Seventh to Wabash right-of-way on Walnut street and on West Fifth street from Mulberry street to the Wabash right-of-way.

Paving on Fillmore Street Is Completed

The paving of Filimore street from Second to Eighth streets was completed this noon when the Cook & O'Brien Construction Co., finished a half block between Third and Fourth streets.

The company moved its equipment to Walnut street for the purpose of putting the grade in shape between Twelfth street and the south side of the Wabash right-of-way in shape for paving with brick and a concrete base of four inches. The concrete base will be poured tomorrow.

TO ADVERTISE NODAWAY CO.

PLAN PROPOSED TODAY BY MARYVILLE BUSINESS MEN.

WILL INCREASE VALUES

Those Sponsoring Plan Feel This Is Logical Year To Attract People From the Outside.

A proposed plan to launch an extensive advertising campaign on Nodaway County land in a large way, was introduced and discussed at a noon luncheon today at the Country Club of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and a few other interested business men.

Those who are sponsoring the proposal feel that, due to the big crops in the county this year the time is ripe to bring outside people here to see Nodaway County at its best. Such a campaign would probably include advertising in such farm journals as the Country Gentleman, Wallace Farmer, Successful Farming and others.

The plan met with uniform approval of those attending the meeting today. Committees were appointed to further develop the idea and to make plans for financing it. A committee composed of James Todd, Fred Hull and D. A. Caldwell was appointed to develop a tentative advertising campaign for the first year and the amount necessary. Another committee composed of Paul Sisson, Arch Frank and D. A. Caldwell was appointed to develop a plan of handling the prospects once they are interested by advertising.

Those present at the meeting were Dr. Jesse Miller, Sr., F. C. Miller, W. F. Phares, J. B. Cummins, C. F. Remus, L. M. Eek, and Arch Frank, members of the board of directors, and C. D. Bellows, Geo. Wilfley, Joseph Jackson, Paul Sisson, E. E. Williams, George Baker and J. O. Dragoo.

3 BILLION IN CORN IN 1925

ESTIMATE MADE TODAY BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

WHEAT, 416 MILLION BU.

Corn Crop Will Be 500 Million Bu. In Excess of Last Year—Wheat About Same.

Washington, Aug. 10.—America's harvest prospects this year were estimated today by the agriculture department in a report based upon a survey of its field agents as of August 1.

The winter wheat total production this year will be 416 million bushels, compared with 509 million bushels last year.

The condition of the winter wheat was not specified. The spring wheat crop condition was 73.9 per cent, indicating a total crop of 263 million bushels against 283 million bushels last year.

A 3 billion dollar crop for 1925 was forecast by the department of agriculture. The corn crop is just short of 3 billion bushels, and based on present prices, will put more than 3 billion dollars in the pockets of the American farmers. The crop is 500 million bushels in excess of the crop last year.

Belgium Will Pay Her U. S. War Debt

Washington, Aug. 10.—Definite assurance that Belgium will discharge her obligations to the United States was given to the American debt-funding commission today by Baron Corter de Marchieene, Belgian ambassador to this country. In the first meeting of the Belgians and the American treasury head, the former urged the United States to treat Belgium as it had done other countries, taking into consideration its desire to pay as well as its ability. Secretary Mellon assured the Belgian negotiators that every effort would be made to fund the debt on a business-like basis taking into full consideration Belgium's capacity to meet her obligations.

"The funding of the debt," Mellon said, "Means more than the mere payment in dollars. It is the recognition of international obligations and the settlement of a question which might have disturbed the long friendship between these two countries."

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER
By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—Ask an oldline Republican, "Who'll be the next radical leader in the senate"—for you know the oldliners are thinking a lot about this—and the chances are he'll reply, right off the bat, "It won't be Frazier anyway."

Then he'll take time to say radicalism's completely gone up, so it won't need any leader.

Yet when you inquire, "Why not Frazier—'anyway'? Why 'of course' not?" all the explanation you get will be, "Oh, he wouldn't do."

After hearing substantially this same thing about two dozen times you begin to get the impression the old-line Republicans are a trifle afraid of Frazier—think he'd make a pretty formidable radical leader, which wouldn't suit their book a mite—they want radicalism to disintegrate, for lack of leadership—and are trying to pooh-pooh him out of consideration.

Maybe he wouldn't make a good radical leader. But it seems premature to say 'of course" he wouldn't.

To a nonpartisan bystander it seems as if he might make a fair stab at the job. He isn't spectacular, like La Follette, but he' able, well-informed, experienced in polities, has punch, knows how to make a first-class speech and take care of himself in debate and shows a wonderful capacity for landing and standing up under some mighty hard knocks.

He was elected governor of North Dakota three times. In the midst of his third term he was recalled by 4102 votes. If that wasn't a jolt what is? In spite of it, the very next year he was elected to the senate by a majority of 8848.

A comeback like that — and so quick—suggests a strong man.

Perhaps there's no particular reason for predicting he'll be the next radical standard bearer in the senate, but this constant Republican old-line repetition of, "Oh no, of course not," sounds queer. It sounds as if the oldliners "hoped" not. It almost hints that that's just what he will be.

The politicians are denouncing the reorganization of the prohibition enforcement unit because it centralizes power in the hands of the Federal Government. Also it is feared it will make prohibition enforcement more effective.—Kansas City Times.

Editor's Note—This is the nineteenth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON.

Possessors of the most engaging personality in official life, Senator Pat Harrison (D., of Miss.) has cultivated the hobby of playing "Pollyanna" to the rest of the grim old world.

His ready fount of humor, wide friendly smile and likeable pleasantries have won him the largest circle of friends in the nation's capital. Few politicians have ever come to Washington as little known as the Mississippi Senator and yet won a niche so high in the affections of his fellowmen.

Harrison is probably the only Democrat in Congress ever to wontonly denounce the Republican Party and yet actually make the Republicans like it. His speeches in the Senate are replete with witticisms, spoken through friendly smiles, and his Republican colleagues enjoy the attacks just as much as do his Democratic co-workers. Although a Democratic standard bearer, he has never made a foe by his debate. On the contrary, he has actually added to his friendships.

Speeches Pleased Coolidge.

In fact, he even made President Coolidge like his speeches while the President was serving as presiding officer of the Senate. The President said so himself, when Harrison called to pay his respects, shortly after the former Vice-President entered the White House.

"Hello, Mr. President!" said Harrison.

"Hello, Pat," came the Presidential greeting. "Your voice is the most familiar thing about you. I certainly have missed your speeches."

Shortly afterward the President heard that Harrison was to make a speech in Boston. Without a word to Pat, the President wrote to several Boston friends urging them to see that Harrison was given "the treatment a good fellow deserves."

Fought for Career.

The Senator's friendships among capital employes are just as warm, for Pat was a college waiter, a hack driver and a newsboy in the long ago. He knows what it means to struggle for a living.

His career, in truth, reads like the works of Horatio Alger. Harrison started as a newsboy in Crystal Springs, Miss., fought for his education as a hack driver and a waiter, graduated with honors, became a school teacher, studied law, was elected District Attorney, made good and was promoted to the national House of Representatives by his constituents and finally entered the Senate by defeating Senator James K. Vardaman, who had won his toga by the greatest majority ever given a Senatorial candidate in Mississippi.

The Senator's material achievement are really amazing. His father died when Pat was three years of age, leaving the family in straitened circumstances. When nine, Pat began to make his own living by selling newspapers. He was so successful that some weeks, during sessions of the State Chautauqua nearby, he cleared as much as $200 from his "business."

From Waiter To Senator.

Through a friend, Hulette F. Aby, now of Tulsa, Okla., the Senator entered Louisiana State University, earning his way by working as a waiter. His serving on tables only added to his credit, and he was the hit of the campus. His quick smile and unfailing humor carried him over many a rough spot and were instrumental, ultimately in building up such a following in Mississippi that he finally won a seat in Congress. His subsequent defeat of Vardaman for the Senatorial toga ranks as one of the greatest political overthrows in the history of the South. In sixteen years he went from a waiter's job to the Senate.

It is the same Pat Harrison in public or private. Off the Senate floor, Republicans gather to hear Pat's humorous anecdotes with as much delight as the Democrats.

Is Ardent Sportsman.

Pat is an ardent baseball fan and a real student of the game. In his college days he played the game as a pitcher. Later he pitched for a semi-pro team which claimed the State championship of Louisiana.

Secret in Name.

There is one secret in Pat's life and is his name. He was christened Byron Patten Harrison after a maternal uncle, who came of fine old English stock. Early in his life he was nicknamed Pat, and the Irish cognomen stuck.

As the Senator explains:

"Everybody called me Pat, it was so easy to remember, and they all forgot the rest of my name. So I merely accepted the inevitable and called myself Pat, too."

Tomorrow—Senator Robert Stanfield.

Will Revolutionize Motoring by New Fuel

Chemical Experts Says It Will Be Only Few Years Before Present Automobiles Will Be Obsolete.

By LINCOLN QUARBERG

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Los Angeles, Calif., August 10 (United Press)—Further details of the proposed revolution in the auto and petroleum industry, which was expected to result in the marketing of a sensational new type of motor and fuel, were revealed at the convention of the American Chemical Society here.

Chemical experts who have made an exhaustive study of the production of synthetic gasoline predict it will not be many years before the present day automobile will be obsolete. Science has already evolved the process of a new fuel which will give fifty miles to the gallon and make practicable an engine which will develop greater speed and power to do away with the gear shift, it was said.

"Chemical laboratories throughout the country have been experimenting for many months on the new fuel," declared H. K. Benson, of the University of Washington, and member of the executive committee of the industrial division of the American Chemical Society.

Strengthens Weak Eyes

Old fashioned camphor, witchhazel, hydrastis, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash, strengthens eyes and relieves any case weak, strained or sore eyes. Acts surprisingly quick. Aluminum eye cup free. Koch Pharmacy.—Adv.

It has been developed that a very high powered fuel can be manufactured from petroleum, coal or lignite.

"The base of this new fuel is benzel, although it can be manufactured from low gravity gasoline. The new combustible will be especially adaptable to a new type of motor which I understand is being prepared for manufacture and marketing in one of the big automobile laboratories in Detroit."

Benson said this new motor fuel could be produced at a cost of 16 to 18 cents per gallon. The retail price should not exceed 25 cents, he said.

Stately Elms Are Obscured by the Nodaway Co. Corn

This is vacation time and open season for fishy fish stories.

But most of them are very tame compared to the current stories of Nodaway County corn growers.

Irwin Lock who lives northeast of Pickering is a corn grower. He has a field of corn this summer that is doing pretty well. In the middle of his corn field he has some elm trees. A short time ago when he was in the field he decided that as soon as he got time he would peel the bark off the trees in his field so they would die. Saturday he got caught up a little on his farm work and decided that he would go out and peel those elm trees.

But he couldn't find the trees for the corn. And after searching through his field all morning he gave up in despair.

EVEN IF IT HURTS

Now and then we sacrifice a new car sale because we will not pay an excessive price for a used car. If we paid Smith too much we would have to get it back from Jones. That would be unfair—and we believe in fairness, even if it hurts.

A New Type of Service

Employes of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), who have taken advantage of the Company's Stock Purchasing Plan in 1925, will get their stock at $62.00 per share, regardless of what the price may be during the remainder of the year.

This is the average market price for a six months' period ending March 31, 1925.

In reality, Standard Oil employes get their stock at $41.33 per share, as the Company adds, as a gift, 50c to every dollar invested by the employe.

Regarding the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Stock Purchasing Plan, Mr. O. A. Mather, in the Chicago Tribune, says:

"Four years ago the Standard Oil directors translated into action their belief that employes would be more efficient and loyal if they were stockholders and also that they should be permitted to share the profits. While this was not a new idea, the plan worked out by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was somewhat of a departure from custom.

"The directors announced a five year stock acquisition plan whereby employes might subscribe for stock to the extent of one-fifth of their annual salaries. This constituted a partial payment plan. But as an additional incentive and reward the directors stated that for every dollar put in by an employe the company would add 50 cents. As the price of the stock each year is based on the average market price for a preceding period, the company, in effect, is selling stock to its employes at two-thirds of its market value."

The result of making the employe ownership of stock attractive has been to promote harmony, encourage industrious efficiency and to harbor contentment among the employes; in short, to instill and nourish the spirit of service, which reacts to the distinct benefit of the patrons of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in the ten Middle Western states where the Company is straining every nerve and fibre to serve thirty million people with petroleum products of high quality, when and where they need them.

If You Buy A New Dress

or a screen door, or a piece of furniture, you want to be sure that it will look good, and last. Outside of that there is not other consideration. If it isn't good value, you are merely dissatisfied with your purchase, but no other particular evil accrues.

But when you go to your grocer's to buy food, it is entirely different. Then, you not only want food that tastes good, but food that is healthful and body-building. Poor sub-standard foods are a menace to health and even life.

In our business we try to give our customers the very best quality of food.

This new Square Deal is "Galvannealed"—not ordinary galvanized. By a patented process two to three times heavier zinc coating is put on the wire. In fact, the makers say that "Galvannealed" wire is protected against rust clear to the core because there is copper in the steel from which this new wire is made.

Baker Will Not Ask For Enloe to Quit, He Says

Governor Makes Formal Statement Reaffirming Decision In Matter.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 10.—Gov. Sam Baker, in a statement Saturday night reaffirmed his decision not to ask for the resignation of Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, chairman of the state penal board and member of the state board of health.

The governor was reported to "have suggested" the resignation of Doctor Enloe, following a conference Wednesday night with Dr. James Stewart, secretary, and Mr. Emmett P. North of St. Louis, president of the state board of health. Doctors Stewart and North were quoted as having told the governor that connection of Doctor Enloe with the ouster case against the Kansas City college of medicine and surgery had brought the board of health under a cloud and that they "could not remain on the board unless Enloe resigned."

The Kansas City college of medicine and surgery, in answer recently filed to ouster proceedings, pending in the state supreme court, charged Doctor Enloe with irregularities in office during a medical examination in Kansas City in November, 1922. The Kansas City institution was charged with operating "a diploma mill."

When informed today of the statement by the governor that he had not and would not accept Doctor Enloe's resignation from the state board of health Doctor Stewart said:

"No information has been laid before me which would justify me in demanding Dr. Enloe's resignation as a member of the board of health," Governor Baker said in a conference with press representatives on the executive mansion lawn.

"I have not requested Dr. Enloe's resignation and would not accept it at this time even if it were tendered. There never has been a time I could not have had Dr. Enloe's resignation if I wanted it. He did not ask for the reappointment on the board of health, but I named him because I felt some of the older board members should be retained.

"Dr. Enloe, so far as I know, has not attended any of the meetings of the board of health and has not collected one cent expense money as a member of that board since I have been governor. This is the final word in connection with the controversy and it does not make any difference what anyone else says or does.

"All this stuff they are talking about took place before I became governor.

"I am not excited about it because it is alleged to have happened in the former administration. If the board of health wanted to take action, that would have been the proper time. They should not have waited and tried to unload it on me. This is my position regardless of what has been said or written."

M'Atee Named Oil Inspector

Jefferson City, Aug. 10.—Governor Baker yesterday announced the appointment of William A. McAtee of Springfield as state oil inspector, to succeed Asa W. Butler of Albany, whose term expires August 17.

The governor said McAtee, who is a member of the Republican state committee, will be here today for a conference regarding his new position. However, he will not take active charge of the office for another week.

The governor said that of the eight regular inspectors and three special inspectors, three and possibly four changes will be made September 1. The changes will be made in the course of the reorganization of the department, he declared, and added that new districts will be formed to handle the work of the oil department.

The executive said the new men for the places already have been selected from 150 applicants.

McAtee has been in the insurance business in Springfield for many years and was head of the Baker movement in Springfield and Greene county.

Miss Irene Lowry left this morning for Des Moines, Ia., to be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Roy Shriver and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goodspeed had as their guests yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis of Chillicothe and Harley Morris.

Where the Earth Opened

A number of mysterious cave-ins of land in Birmingham, Ala., have go the citizens all on edge. Here is a picture of one, where the ground opened and let a double garage, a coal shed and a large tree sink down into a hole. Scientists believe there are subterranean cavities under the city and say the drainage of water from these cavities causes the settling.

Tommy Milton Gives Don'ts In Driving an Automobile

The first thing to remember is that the man who doesn't keep his car in order is a potential killer.

There is a rule regarding brakes, set by engineers, that you ought to know. It is: Your brakes ought to hold your car on any hill your car can climb. Graded hills ought not to be steeper than a rise of one foot in every sixteen feet of roadway, but if there are steeper hills on your motor car route you ought to test your brakes on them.

Learn to know a sign of danger on the road when you see one. In order to do this you must use your brains. There is an "inside" of driving just as there is an "inside" of baseball. There is a "low down" of the road that everyone ought to know.

Here's a fellow with a spotlight on his car. It isn't on the left side of the car, but in the middle or perhaps even on the right side where he can easily reach it with his right hand. It would be better to arrest this man now than to arrest him after he has killed some one. His spotlight, at night, actually invites oncoming traffic to hit him.

The fellow who passes you recklessly from behind is a killer. He gets out of line, into the middle of the road. He makes a bet with himself that if he meets an oncoming car the line will open and let him in again. But suppose it doesn't. The man who drives or bets like this is a menace.

"Don't speed up when a car attempts to pass you from behind," is one of the primary rules of the road. I never do. The road is no place for a race. Analysis of thousands of accidents show that trying to head off one of these "passing" fools is deadly.

Thousands are killed by joyriders; hundreds by drivers of stolen cars. Car thieves always drive recklessly. Don't blame the joyriders alone. What about the man who owns the car? Did he have a lock on the car of a sort that would make theft impossible?

Traffic policemen must be taught to consider pedestrians as part of the traffic at every crossing. They must tell walkers where and when to move. Another fixed axiom must be that the streets are not playgrounds for children. We must have real playgrounds somewhere for city children.

The time may come when we shall have governors on our cars that will keep speed down to thirty or thirty-five miles an hour, but it isn't always speed that kills. It's recklessness.

Don't get your signals too fancy. Our signals must be foolproof. The minute you try to work out complicated codes for languid jeweler hands or for grimy mitts you'r spoiling the value of signals. Four motions are enough. I like Collier's signs. To turn to the left you stretch out your arm and point in that direction. To turn to the right you crook your elbow upward and point your finger toward the right. To stop you hold out your hand with the palm forward. To tell a man behind you to pass you wave your hand forwardly. That's all—and enough. They're natural motions, not artificial. They tell the full story.

And when you signal, make a real signal out of the gesture. Make it in plenty of time, not suddenly. Don't flop out a lazy hand. Remember, you're trying to tell someone behind that ther'e danger ahead. Your signal is just as important and just as life-saving as a railroad semaphore signal.

Believe me, it isn't the incompetent driver who is the most dangerous. The competent driver—selfish, heartless, cruel and reckless—is the danger of the road. The man or woman who is selfish and heartless in everyday life doesn't lose that character at the driver's wheel. Instead, he or she has a killing weapon which, out of selfishness and disregard for the rights of others, he or she may use as an instrument of slaughter.

Don't seize your "right" until the other fellow lets you know in some way that he recognizes the fact. Wait for the other fellow to give you your right; don't take it. If he doesn't give it to you, take care of yourself and put him down as a fool.

Don't ever try to outguess or get the best of fools in motor cars. They'll kill a wise man every time, because a wise driver figures out what a fool ought to do, and the fool never does it. —Tommy Milton in Collier's.

CORNER MAIN AND SECONDS STS. MARYVILLE, MISSOURI

MO. LEADS IN ROAD BUILDING

HAS MORE MILES UNDER CONSTRUCTION THAN ANY STATE.

528 PROJECTS STARTED

177 Contractors Working on These Projects—Work Now Averaging 3 Million a Month.

Missouri now has under way the largest construction program of good roads of any state in the Union, according to B. H. Piepmeier, chief engineer of the Missouri State Highway Commission. Keen competition is being secured at all road lettings and large savings are being effected as a result of bids being received from contractors from this and adjoining states. Over 240 bids were received at the last letting held July 24. About $2,500,000 worth of road work was let on July 24, at approximately $200,000 under the engineer's estimate.

Contractors are apparently well pleased with the treatment they are getting in the building of Missouri's roads. All contracts are let to the lowest, responsible bidders and every phase of the plans and specifications are carried out by the engineers and inspectors who are stationed on all jobs to see that the work is done strictly in accordance with the contract. Contractors do not object to this procedure, but favor it, because they know what to expect when they bid on state road work in Missouri.

The Department has a big organization of engineers and inspectors, whose duty it is to see that all work is done right. The administrative cost of supervising all work amounts to but about three per cent. This is money well spent, as it insures the highest class of workmanship and permanency.

The government engineers are praising the quality of the work being done in Missouri. This has been brought about by strict supervision and high grade engineering work.

The state road building material that is being furnished for construction work in various parts of the State, is meeting with favor among contractors. It is very evident that the State is buying material at a much lower figure than it can be purchased by individual contractors. State furnished material saves considerable money for the State because it is not necessary to pay bond premiums on the value of such materials and because the contractors figure no profit on the materials furnished by the State. The State furnishes material and pro-rates it to the various contractors in accordance with their needs. This method prevents the big contractor from monopolizing the supply and increasing the price for the smallest contractor.

The State Highway Commission now has over 177 contractors working in different parts of the State. There are 528 projects being built at this time. Work is being completed at the rate of from thirty to fifty miles per week, which insures the completion of a thousand miles of hard-surfaced road this year.

The Department is now paying for work done at the rate of about $2,500,000 per month. Every bill is carefully checked and all discounts on materials are secured. The discounts alone on bills for prompt payment amount to approximately $11,729.00 per month.

$32,500,000 of the $60,000,000 bonds have been sold. Approximately $26,000,000 have been paid out for work done, under the $60,000,000 program. Another block of $7,500,000 of bonds will be sold in September. The Department will continue to let work throughout the summer and fall. Over $25,000,000 worth of work will actually be done in Missouri this year. The Department is planning to do approximately $25,000,000 worth of road work during 1926, which will finish another one thousand miles of road.

This construction program is rapidly closing many of the gaps now existing in the hard-surfaced roads in various parts of the State. By fall of next year, the state road system of 7,640 miles will be more than one-half completed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gannan left this morning in their car for Caruthersville, Mo., where both will teach in the public schools this year. They will visit in Maysville, Weatherby, Sweet Springs and Jefferson City, en route home.

Miss Etta Marie Stiverson of the Peoples Telephone office will go to Clarinda, Ia., tomorrow to attend the funeral of her grandfather, Steve Stiverson, who died yesterday morning.

Morvitich, a young saloon keeper, was sent across the river to bring back some kegs of beer, he asserted. The water was rough and the helper fell into the river.

Baker made it clear that he did not request Nix's withdrawal and his delay in accepting the resignation was taken to mean that he was reluctant to part with the warden's services.

Harvard, Ill., Council Unfavorable to KKK

Harvard, Ill., August 10, (United Press)—The city council after debating a request from the Ku Klux Klan for a permit to parade in the streets of Harvard on August 15, voted to lay the matter on the table until August 17.

The Klan, intending to hold a conclave here on August 15, remembered that aged eggs and ancient fruit were hurled at their machines in the streets of Harvard after a gathering here last year, asked for police protection for their parade on the fifteenth. The matter was debated somewhat bitterly and then the council voted to lay the matter over until August 17, two days after the conclave.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Divided action featured the grain close on the Board of Trade today. Wheat and oats recorded fractional losses. Corn made appreciable gains.

Wheat underwent one rally during the entire trading session. Most operations were in lower ground. Available supplies increased one million twenty-five thousand bushels. Export business was flat.

Oats lagged. Buying was scattered.

Provisions made fair gains on good packinghouse buying.

Intend to Erect C. Clark Monument

Despite Statement of Mrs. Champ Clark Commissioners Will Go Ahead With the Work.

Bowling Green, Mo., Aug. 10.—The Champ Clark monument will be erected in the court house square here despite Mrs. Clark's statement that the town had no need of it, members of the Champ Clark monument commission said yesterday.

Mrs. Clark's statement might as well never have been made so far as the commission's plans are concerned, the members said.

The commission:

Senator J. D. Hostetter, Bowling Green; Senator R. F. Ralph, Valley Park; Carroll Wisdom, Bowling Green.

A statement by Mrs. Clark was published Saturday. Mrs. Clark wrote bitterly of William Jennings Bryan, referring to him as "that damned Bryan mountebank." She revived the Clark-Bryan feud born at the Baltimore convention of 1912, when the Missouri Democratic leader accused the Commoner of breaking faith politically and costing Clark the presidential nomination.

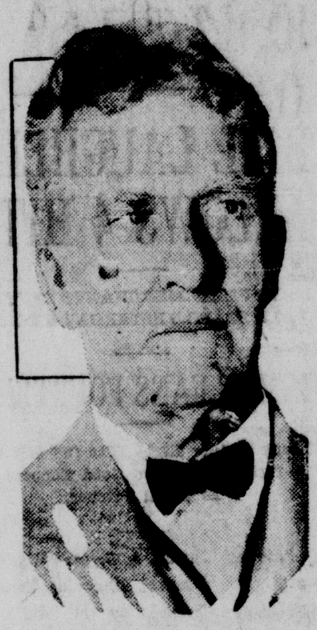
Mrs. Clark said thousands of letters had been received from all parts of the world criticizing the state's appropriation for a Champ Clark monument to be erected in Bowling Green. Mrs. Clark advised Missouri to take back the money, saying there was no need for it, and that her husband slept well after "life's fitful fever." The members of the commission said they "had no idea" what Mrs. Clark referred to.

Senator Hostetter indicated Mrs. Clark had been hasty.

"Of course," he said, "we are going right ahead with the plans for the Clark monument. Mrs. Clark's statements aren't going to interfere in the least. They might as well have been left unsaid, so far as the commission is concerned."

Mr. Wisdom and Mr. Ralph agreed.

New Bryan?



The Rev. William Bell Riley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Minneapolis, is hailed as the successor to William Jennings Bryan as leader of the fundamentalists. At least, Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America, so regards him. Rev. Mr Riley is in Los Angeles now, shaping a fundamentalist campaign there.

Missouri Divided Into Districts to Save Game and Fish

Effective Police Organization Covering Entire State Is Effected.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 10.—For the first time in the history of the state game and fish department, Missouri has been divided into deputy districts, with each of the twenty-five deputy commissioners being held responsible for his particular district. This was done to cover the entire state with proper protection for game and fish.

Formerly the deputies had no regular districts but worked in the territory around where they resided, sometimes overlapping and probably leaving some territory unprotected.

In making the announcement Saturday, Commissioner Keith McCanse stated: "As a further extension of the plan to police the state properly for violators of game and fish laws a system of special deputies is being developed. The special deputies will work under the district deputy and will make regular reports to him. In this way an effective police organization will be established to cover the entire state.'

50 Deputies Appointed.

During the past few weeks about fifty special deputies have been appointed.

"Deputies have been selected for their courage, interest in hunting and fishing and standing in their community. By placing them in districts a close net organization has been formed," said McCanse.

It was further stated that three of the deputies reside in St. Louis but work in individual districts, except that they work in St. Louis and St. Louis County jointly. One-fifth of the sportsmen of the state reside in St. Louis and hunt and fish near by.

District No. 1 is composed of Atchison, Holt, Nodaway, Worth and Gentry counties, J. A. Wallace, Maryville as deputy commissioner.

Mrs. Robert Carver and daughters, Misses Elnora and Velva Carver of Chicago are the guests of Mrs. Carvers father, R. J. Hagan, and other relatives, at Barnard.

Miss Margaret Lee Winston returned this morning from a week's buying trip to St. Louis for the Ashford Millinery Co.

BILL LAUGHLIN ALLOWS 4 HITS

MARYVILLE MERCHANTS DEFEAT ALL STARS YESTERDAY 5 TO 4.

INMAN FANS FOURTEEN

Locals Gather Eight Hits Off His Offerings and Give Good Support To Local Pitcher.

Although Inman, a 19-year-old youth struck out fourteen Maryville batters yesterday afternoon on the local diamond, the Maryville Merchants' Ball Club defeated the Atchison County All Stars 5 to 4. Inman works on a ranch a few miles out of Tarkio and tried out in the Western League this year but was sent back on account of his age.

Even though striking out fourteen men was a feature of the game the Maryville Merchants boasted of a hurler, who allowed the All Stars only four hits, who is in reality a catcher, but does play on the infield when need be and his hitting is of a timely nature. Laughlin got one of the 2 two-base hits clouted out by the Maryville sluggers.

The Merchants located three of Inman's offerings for hits in the second inning, all of which terminated in that many runs. Again in the next inning the locals took advantage of a couple of hits and a hit batsman and brought in two runs. This ended the scoring for Maryville, but the five runs were all that was necessary to win. With two men down in the seventh inning, Flory, catcher for the Atchison All Stars, slammed the pill over the center fielder for a home run, which was the only four-bagger of the fray.

Tilson of Maryville, who was credited for thirteen put outs, two hits and two runs, was the only Merchant player who Inman could not fan. The Merchants gave Bill Laughlin good support and in spite of the fact there was a scarcity of Maryville players, only eight being suited up and Virgil Gray pressed into service, put up a good exhibition before the meager crowd. The box score:

St. Mary's Single Men Trounce Married Men

The second inning yesterday proved the downfall of the married men's team of the St. Mary's Church against the single men's team in a ball game played east of the 102 River. Twelve runs were netted by the single men. The final score was 24 to 5 in favor of the single men.

Warden Hands in Resignation

Resignation Follows Affronti's Visit to K. C. Unguarded.

Jefferson City, Aug. 10.—Governor Baker yesterday announced he has received the resignation of S. T. Nix, warden of the penitentiary, following the warden's action in permitting Lonnie Affronti, 10-year-term bandit convict of Kansas City to visit that city two weeks ago unaccompanied by a guard.

The governor said if he accepted the resignation he already has a man picked as Nix's successor.

It is believed in political circles Nix's resignation presages a shake-up in the membership of the state prison board with the termination of service of Warden Nix, A. K. Steinbeck of Union, as parole commissioner, and William B. McGregor of Brookfield, as farm superintendent.

It is believed Dr. Cortez F. Enloe will remain director of penal institutions and that John S. Burnett will be reappointed superintendent of industries. In fact, Dr. Enloe already has been recommissioned having been reappointed by Governor Baker when his term expired June 19.

Board Appointed January 12.

The prison board was appointed January 12 by Governor Baker to fill out the unexpired terms of members of the prison board who had tendered their designations to former Governor Hyde.

Governor Baker said he received the resignation of Mr. Nix immediately after Affronti visited Kansas City without a guard. He said he was making the announcement in view of the action of 800 residents of Clay county signing a petition demanding the governor oust Nix because of leniency shown Affronti, who was convicted in that county.

"Mr. Nix will continue to be warden until I accept his resignation," said Governor Baker. "If I accept his resignation his successor already has been chosen."

Resignations Not Necessary.

The governor said he has not received the resignations of the other members of the board, but that this is not necessary if he deems it advisable to appoint new members. The members serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The governor said Mr. Nix did not give any reason for his resignation.

Affronti is chauffeur for W. B. McGregor, farm superintendent, and it is believed he was instrumental in causing Affronti to ask permission to visit Kansas City without a guard.

Dr. Enloe and Mr. McGregor have had a close alliance within the prison board since their appointment by Governor Baker, and it is believed Warden Nix did not want to offend McGregor.

It has been apparent, officials say, for several months that Warden Nix was "cowed" by Dr. Enloe, the director, and has had little or nothing to do with the discipline of the institution.

Nix was an usher in the prison prior to his appointment as warden.

Spectacular Battles on the Riffian Front

French Gain New Foothold—Every Conceivable Military Devise Is Being Used in War Against Tribes.

By JOHN O'BRIEN
United Press Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright 1925 by United Press)

Fez, Morocco, August 10—(United Press)—Smoking villages, men sniped by Riffians swarming among the cliffs like flies, tanks and armored cars, thundering artillery—all that is included in the panorama of war that is being waged only a few short miles northward.

I have just come back from the battlefront. There I have seen, after the fashion of correspondents of the World War, a spectacle of fighting that in a few days has cost many Riffians their lives, but has given the French a fresh grip on Fez-El-Bali.

Perched on a blockhouse near Kelan, I had the privilege of watching a part of one of the most spectacular battles which the Riffian war front has known. There, through my glasses, I watched men of the Foreign Legion drive against masses of Riffians, entrenched in rocky defiles. And saw, how men, as brave as any who ever shouldered a rifle, faced the terrors of the swarming Riffian snipers, coupled with a blazing sun that made me wince.

Many deeds of heroism were coupled with the onslaught. The legionnaires went once against the entrenched men. Some fell as Krim's riflemen aimed. But they started again, and yet again.

A Senegalese battled six of the Riffians. Two of them he killed. The other four he brought back to the French lines as prisoners.

This was only a part of the spectacle, for during my visit to the front, there was artillery action across the stretch from El Kelaa Sless to Fez-El-Bali, which mowed down the enemy and fired villages and farmhouses in the lowlands.

Caught in a trap set by the French, 250 Riffians met death in the Mafroun region when lurking French forces suddenly wheeled upon them as they harried a French convoy.

The convoy had been left behind as a "bait," while the commander of the main force pushed forward to deceive the Riffians.

As the commander anticipated, the Riffians pounced upon the convoy and encircled it.

Thereupon the commander rushed his forces back and counter-attacked. The 250 killed represents the heaviest casualty list of any engagement in the Moroccan campaign.

Meantime, along the line from Kelan to Fez-El-Bali, a wave of smoke curled up from burning villages and farms, making a sharp artillery engagement between French and Riffians, the latter of whom had hoped to force their way into Fez-El-Bali. Ruffian losses appeared to be heavy.

While the situation in the east is calm the Riffians have been preparing defenses to meet the expected Spanish attack on the Melilla front. The French, regarding the concentration as equally directed against them, are taking measures for reinforcements to meet the shock.

A flying column of eighteen companies of Senegalese, Algerians, and Foreign Legion men advanced from the Zbou river region, thirty miles north of Fez, to El Kelaa Sless to where an important front line post and garrison of about 1,000 is located.

In the district thereabout, Krim's men had been driving off hundreds of mules and cows. It was this, and a desire to revictual the post of Fez-El-Bali which caused Gen. Bilotte to determine upon the Kelaa action. As the United Press correspondent entered Kelaa, Bilotte's column was moving westward and the telegraph and telephone lines and the road to the south were cut off from communication with Fez.

With a scarcely believable daring and tenacity, the Riffians cut the road south of Kelaa in two places within full view of the French post in broad daylight and set fire to villages of friendly tribes.

To the eastward, Gen. Bilotte encountered stubborn resistance. There the Riffians among the cliffs swarmed like flies and tantalized the French with a sniping action which was only aggravated by the rasping heat. It was here that I witnessed the Foreign Legion charges.

The Riffians apparently had planned an attack in force on Fez-El-Bali and shelled the post with heavy guns for the first time during the campaign.

Storming every peak, the French advance was slow, for it was necessary to clear each defile and make certain that no enemy was in the rear. Eight hundred friendly mounted tribesmen participated, acting as a rear guard covering force.
